About Lubuto

Lubuto Library Partners is an innovative development organization that builds the capacity of public libraries to create opportunities for equitable education and poverty reduction. Its mission is to enlighten and enrich the lives of children and youth in sub-Saharan Africa, especially those not in school and highly vulnerable.

Lubuto constructs enduring, indigenously-styled open-access libraries stocked with comprehensive collections of well-chosen books and appropriate technology. These libraries serve as safe havens and are the center for Lubuto's programs, which offer education, psychosocial support and self-expression through reading, music, art, drama, computers, mentoring and other activities.

LUBUTO'S OBJECTIVES ARE TO:

- Create open access to child-friendly, culture-specific and well-equipped learning environments
- Support holistic development and advocate for the rights of all children and youth, especially the marginalized
- Build capacity of communities and educators to provide high-quality educational, information and social services to children and youth.

LUBUTO'S APPROACH IS TO:

- Identify target community and hosts
- Build library facilities reflecting indigenous culture
- Provide great collections and resources
- Establish targeted and innovative programming
- Carry out effective outreach
- Provide youth library services training
- Monitor and evaluate libraries' impact for advocacy

Unlike many organizations working in Sub-Saharan Africa, Lubuto does not hand-pick its beneficiaries, but keeps its libraries open and free of charge to all—a true public service. Lubuto also stands out for its enduring partnerships with Zambian institutions and communities—it is a[n] organization that grows with Zambia, rather than in isolation.”

—Stephanie Rapp
Friend of Lubuto and former Program Associate

Core values

Lubuto’s core values reflect our understanding of education and participation in society as human rights.

We believe in:

Integrity

We strive to identify and meet the true needs of children, youth and communities.

Inclusion

Lubuto libraries are open to all children while focusing on the most disadvantaged.

Self-determination

We believe that children and communities are capable and resourceful and we empower them to create positive change in their own lives.

Innovation

We promote a new paradigm for children’s library services and community libraries

Partnership

We understand that we cannot achieve our vision alone.

Local ownership

Local ownership and stewardship is fundamental to sustainability and relevance to society.

Gender equality

We reach out to and integrate girls without excluding boys.

Participation

We believe that children and youth have the right to have their voices heard and participate in decision-making that affects their lives.

Balance

We value and respect local tradition while incorporating best technological advances.

Transparency

We scrupulously monitor our internal management and financial systems and communicate openly and honestly about our work.

Respect

We respect the priorities of the host country, the local communities and cultures and the individuals we are serving.

President's letter

To Lubuto's friends and supporters,

2014 was a tremendously successful year in expanding the reach of the Lubuto model, and in planting seeds for future growth and sustainability. Central to this was our focus on cultivating a diverse range of new and exciting partnerships—as well as further developing existing ones. We changed our name from the Lubuto Library Project to Lubuto Library Partners in recognition of these partnerships that help define and animate our work. The name especially highlights Lubuto's pioneering partnerships with the Zambia Library Service and the library profession in Zambia and worldwide.

We opened the third Lubuto library, Mumuni Library, in Nabukuyu in Zambia's Southern Province in November 2014. The library is a beautiful four-building complex that reflects local Tonga culture. We have learned so much from our first rurally-sited library whose user base is so different from those in Lusaka. We are working hard to adapt the programs and facilities to best serve the communities surrounding Nabukuyu.

With continued support from the Open Society Initiative for Southern Africa (OSISA) and Comic Relief, we expanded our advocacy, research and outreach programs. That partnership not only funded construction of the Mumuni Library, but is also supporting a Lubuto collection research project, along with the operational funds that keep our program in Zambia running and allow us to measure the libraries' impact. Elizabeth Giles is investigating collection use on multiple levels, which will inform the development of a Lubuto core collection. Since so many libraries in Africa depend on book donation programs rather than evidence-based collection development and acquisitions, the results of this ongoing research will be useful not only to Lubuto libraries, but to other libraries across Africa in their services to young people.

We are very happy to have received a grant from USAID's American Schools and Hospitals Abroad (ASHA) program that—in combination with Judie Feedham's generous support—will fund the construction of the fourth Lubuto library at Mthunzi Center in peri-urban Lusaka West. ASHA provides funding for construction/rehabilitation of buildings and purchase of commodities to support development of educational institutions that demonstrate the excellence and impact of strong American institutions. We are honored by this tribute to the quality of our work and the recognition of the public library as a community resource that can contribute to resilience in societies. We hope to continue to grow our partnership with ASHA, and, with their support, construct additional Lubuto libraries in the future.

We finished 710 new LubutoLiteracy lessons with the support of our Grand Challenge grant from the All Children Reading partners—USAID, World Vision and Australian AID. Dr. Joseph Mwansa of the University of Zambia, who developed the government's new mother-tongue reading curriculum, designed the entirely new set of literacy lessons in the seven major Zambian languages. In partnering with expert Zambian educators to develop effective and appropriate lessons, it is our hope that children, youth and educators nationwide—both in and out of school—will greatly benefit from LubutoLiteracy lessons extending reading education beyond the classroom to a more accessible computer-based environment.

I invite you to look through our annual report to learn more about our innovative libraries and services, and the partnerships that we have fostered. Our continued success would not be possible without generous support from Lubuto's volunteers, staff, board members, library colleagues, partners and friends from across the globe. We look forward to further empowering vulnerable children and youth through professional library services in 2015—when we celebrate Lubuto's 10th anniversary!

“The Lubuto Library Project’s board of directors today announced that the organization’s name has been changed to Lubuto Library Partners.

The new name underscores the fundamental importance of the partnership between Lubuto libraries and the local communities that they serve. Lubuto is making this change on the eve of its 10th anniversary and the opening of its first rural library.”

—October 15, 2014 Press Release

Name change & rebranding

Our new name, Lubuto Library Partners, recognizes our robust support system of local and international groups and individuals.

These partners have enabled Lubuto’s success over the past ten years, and will ensure a sustainable future.

Lubuto’s new logo illustrates the meaning of the word lubuto (“light, knowledge and enlightenment”)—showing light radiating out from the open door of a Lubuto library, also reaffirming that the libraries and services are open to all children and youth.

The library “home” featured in the center of the logo reflects the function of Lubuto spaces as community centers for gathering the talents of our partners and using them to empower and educate youth.

The logo features clean, modern design that nods to the growing importance of technology and innovation in Lubuto’s model, while still embracing local tradition in imagery.

Mumuni Library opening

“The Mumuni Library is here because of the vision and tenacity of some extraordinary members and supporters of this community. In particular, this library would not be here if not for the persistence and guidance of Mr. Mark Chona and Mrs. Vicky Chona, who understood how much it would mean to you.”

—Jane Meyers, in her address at the Mumuni opening

The Mumuni Library opening celebrations were a great success and included many honored guests.

We were thrilled that so many people made the trek down to Monze District for the opening of this library that was made possible through Comic Relief’s generous support. The celebrations took place over two days with 1,000 children and community members on the first day and 2,000 people participating on November 21st for the official opening. The theme for the celebration was “Opening doors of opportunity for enlightenment and knowledge to Africa’s most vulnerable children and youth.”

The opening activities included storytelling, story dramatizations, traditional dance performances, and poetry readings and drumming by the men, women and children of Nabukuyu, all in Chitonga. Speakers included Lubuto President Jane Kinney Meyers, MRIDE Chairperson Mark Chona, British Council Zambia Country Director Wayne Harper and MES-VTEE Deputy Minister Hon. Patrick Ngoma. Letters were also read on behalf of Christie Vilsack, USAID’s Senior Advisor for International Education, and Dr. Peter Lor, Professor of Library and Information Science at the University of Pretoria. The Master of Ceremonies, author and former Livingstone DEBS Maxwell Bbalo, provided translations to and from Chitonga and English throughout.

Library partnerships

“I would love to work in such an environment and be able to contribute [to] literacy levels in our mother Zambia.”

—Zambian librarian,
on learning about Mumuni Library

Our success would not be possible without the support of library professionals in Zambia and internationally.

Lubuto signed an amended Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the education ministry in 2014. This new MoU is a major milestone as it further commits the government to provide staffing for the libraries and to advocate for developing more libraries with other cooperating partners. It also outlines details of how Lubuto and the Zambia Library Service (ZLS) will work together to extend high quality library services to youth through Lubuto libraries at each of the provincial ZLS libraries.

Lubuto collection research

“Is there any way to do research like this, all over Africa, forever?”

—Peace Corps volunteer in Ethiopia, tweeting after learning about Elizabeth Giles' research

Lubuto library collections are carefully curated, complete collections that continue to grow to reflect the needs of children in the specific communities served.

Elizabeth Giles is leading a research project evaluating Lubuto's collections and how they can better serve the community. Professor Genevieve Hart from the University of the Western Cape advised on the research methodology and Elizabeth was assisted in laying the groundwork for data collection in Zambia by Lisa Scudera.

Data collection began in June 2014 and is ongoing. The mixed-methods study comprised of interviews, focus groups and quantitative in-house use tracking is being undertaken for all three Lubuto libraries. The key research question is how children and youth are utilizing Lubuto collections, and what factors affect library use. After data collection is complete and a report is compiled, we will be able to develop a responsive core collection. Elizabeth will present the survey's preliminary findings to peers at IFLA's World Library and Information Congress in Cape Town in August 2015—where Jane will also present on Lubuto's dynamic partnership model.

LIAZ is forever proud and thankful for LLP'S role in the development of libraries and library services in Zambia. The theme of this National Symposium is "Libraries for National Development" and the work of LLP so very much goes a very long way in providing quality libraries and library services in our country. As LIAZ we are so much proud and thankful to have LLP as one of our key stakeholders in our country."

—Velenasi Munsanje,
President of the Library and
Information Association of Zambia (LIAZ)

Partnership with USAID/ASHA

Lubuto received an award of almost $250,000 from ASHA to fund Mthunzi Library.

USAID's American Schools and Hospitals Abroad (ASHA) program is unique in that it funds construction and the purchase of commodities. Since construction of libraries is central to Lubuto's mission, this is an excellent funding source for Lubuto, for our fourth and, we hope, future libraries.

The Lubuto Mthunzi American Youth Library will be the third Lubuto library located in Lusaka—and will serve the western outskirts of the city. The library will be constructed on the grounds of its host organization, Mthunzi Centre, a well-respected community institution that provides residential facilities and academic services—as well as other forms of support—to marginalized children and youth in the surrounding areas. Lubuto's relationship with Mthunzi Centre dates back to 2006 and is grounded in our mutual commitment to providing young people with the tools they need to succeed in all facets of life.

American public libraries are a cornerstone of civic participation, information access and literacy, and public spaces for learning. This support from ASHA and Judie Feedham will help us to build libraries in Africa that can support local communities in these critical ways.”

—Jane Meyers, in January 15, 2015 press release

Board of Directors

BOARD CHAIRMAN
Jane Kinney Meyers
President, Lubuto Library
Partners, Washington, DC

Jane Meyers is a professional librarian with over 35 years of experience working with and living in Africa. She lived in Malawi for nearly four years in the mid-1980's on a World Bank project, developing a network of research libraries for the country's Ministry of Agriculture and pioneering CD-ROM applications for Africa. Ten years later she returned to neighboring Zambia, where she became increasingly involved with services to street children offered by the Fountain of Hope, a drop-in shelter in Lusaka. She established a reading program, served on the Board, raised funds, and created a library for the children, among her many contributions to the center. On her return to the U.S. in 2001, she developed the concept, approach and organization of Lubuto Library Partners. Most of Jane's professional career has been involved with libraries in international development, particularly in the agricultural sector. She worked in that capacity at the World Bank and the U.S. National Agricultural Library, for USAID, and as a consultant to a number of international organizations. Jane has a B.A. from the University of Arizona with highest distinction and a M.L.S. from the University of Maryland.

As a professor helping to train future youth librarians I not only admire the Lubuto efforts but use it as an instructional resource in class—to demonstrate what true community development means as executed through not only a library but a youth-focused civil institution. I admire Lubuto for its steadfast position to build community from within its local circumstances rather than impose preconceived notions, agendas, or discourses. This approach is so much more important, and difficult, when working with youth. Lubuto is a GREAT nonprofit!"
